CAMPUS ART MARKET SURVEY

Following the 5-Step Research Design Process

STEP 1: DEFINE RESEARCH QUESTION/PROBLEM

Research Problem:

"Is there sufficient student interest and viability for establishing a regular Campus Art Market?"

Key Research Questions:

- Why collect data? To determine if students would actively participate in and support an on-campus art market
- What do we want to understand?
  - Student demographics and art-buying behavior
  - Level of interest in a campus art market
  - Preferred products, timing, and location
  - Willingness of student artists to participate as vendors
  - Optimal market format and logistics
- What type of data is needed? Quantitative data through structured survey with multiple scaling formats

STEP 2: IDENTIFY KEY METRICS

Based on the retail store experience framework adapted for a Campus Art Market:

Metric	Description
Student Demographics	Academic standing, art purchasing habits
Market Interest	Overall attitude, likelihood to attend
Product Preferences	Types of art/products students want to buy
Spending Behavior	How much students are willing to spend
Market Logistics	Preferred location, timing, frequency
Vendor Interest	Willingness of student artists to sell
Experience Factors	Atmosphere, variety, affordability
Payment Preferences	Cash, digital, cards
